MISSOURI STATE NEWS.

BAKALATER, TRIPS & Co., grocers, of St. Joseph, have failed.

BAHNS in Kansas City are moving in the direction of Sunday closing.

The Missouri state Sunday school convention met at Springfield on the 12th.

DR. FRANKER, of Excelsior Springs, was recently drowned while fishing near Camden.

A GRAY containing $1,000 worth of diamonds was stolen from J. M. Gibbs' jewelry store at Hannibal the other evening.

The French Commission Co. of Kansas City has made an assignment. Liabilities about $90,000, of which all, except $15,000 are secured.

The Springfield Bank of Commerce has failed. The last statement showed $250,000 in resources and a surplus of $100,000 and $120,000 in deposits.

WHILE mowing grass the other day near Jackson, William Green, a farmer, fell in front of the sickle and was run over. One of his legs was severed from his body and the other badly injured.

DR. WATSON HOLY, of Missouri, who was dismissed by Commissioner Baum for giving Congressional Tammany information to the committee on the pension for badness, has been reinstated.

MISSOURI dentists, recently in session at Excelsior Springs, elected officers as follows: President, W. S. Tucker, of Springfield; Secretary, S. C. A. Ruby, of Clinton; Treasurer, J. A. Price, of Weston.

WILLIAM FLECK, of Vernon county, was recently bitten on the hand by a rattlesnake and his whole arm and shoulder became terribly swollen, but his suffering intense. It was thought he could not recover.

MRS. MARY LAFAY, wife of a prominent farmer of Pettis county, who had been mentally unbalanced for some time, escaped from her watchers the other night and committed suicide by drowning in a pond on the farm.

CHARLES E. BIRCH, a bookkeeper for the first national bank, died very suddenly at Kansas City the other morning from heart disease and an overdose of morphine taken to quiet his nerves.

The deceased was about 27 years old. His first annual session of the Missouri Methodist assembly began at Pettis Springs on the 10th and continued nine days. The assembly was under the auspices of the three conferences of the Southern Methodist church in Missouri.

The members of the St. Joseph board of public schools were recently heard in effigy from a telegraph pole. A placard pinned on the breast of the effigy read: "The directors of the school board are hereby notified to be hanged from a higher moral plane."

The Kansas City national bank (J. S. Child's bank) closed its doors on the 15th. The assets were believed to be ample to pay all depositors in full. The failure carried with it the Franklin Savings bank, a small concern closely allied to the national bank.

F. E. BRIDGEMAN, president of the defunct Bank of Commerce at Springfield, has been arrested on a charge of receiving deposits when he knew the bank was insolvent. Cashier Newman was also arrested on the same charge.

REV. DR. W. D. YEAHAN, of Columbia, has accepted the presidency of the Grand River Baptist college at Gallatin.

DR. YEAHAN is moderator of the State Baptist Convention, which will be held at St. Joseph, Mo., next week, and last year was prominently mentioned for the democratic nomination for governor.

A FINANCIAL GRASH.

Missouri, Colorado and Kansas Banks Close Their Doors After Having Stood Heavy Runs. The Suspensions, a Surprise to Everybody, Due to the Demanded Cash-Rescue to the Mortgage and Hospital—Every Artery of Trade.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 18.—Twenty minutes before noon yesterday the Missouri national bank suspended payment, closed its doors and sent for Bank Examiner Galbraith. The comptroller of the currency at Washington was immediately notified, and a notice like this was posted on the door.

This bank has suspended payment and is in the hands of the comptroller of the currency. The bank's assets are $1,254,750.50, and the liabilities, outside of its capital stock, are $700,000.

The Missouri national bank is a new bank with choice securities, and people seemed to have unlimited faith in it until Saturday, when they started a run which took about $300,000 from the vaults.

Yesterday morning the large depositors began to draw out their accounts, and the bank was unable to meet the demands for cash. The public generally supposed the bank had stood the crucial test of Saturday successfully and would therefore pull through without further trouble. But the remarkable financial disaster that had permeated every artery of trade was surely doing its work, and as soon as the bank opened yesterday morning the large depositors, the friends of the bank, began to withdraw their funds.

The bank of Grand Avenue, which carried on business at 1401 Grand avenue, closed its doors at 9:30 yesterday morning. Assets $300,000; liabilities, $140,000. The following notice was posted on the door:

The bank has made an assignment of all its assets for the benefit of its creditors. James B. Buckett, assignee, who has possession thereof.

Under the notice of assignment was an explanatory statement which read: "A large amount of money being tied up by the failure of the National bank of Kansas City, we are unable to meet the demands for cash at this time. The bank has ample securities to pay its depositors in full and will have to ask your indulgence until the assets can be realized on."

Under the notice of assignment was an explanatory statement which read: "A large amount of money being tied up by the failure of the National bank of Kansas City, we are unable to meet the demands for cash at this time. The bank has ample securities to pay its depositors in full and will have to ask your indulgence until the assets can be realized on."

THE CLOSING OF THE DOORS caused no excitement in the vicinity. Some people paused out of curiosity to look at the notice, but there was no excited crowd about the bank and no angry depositors. The impression prevails in the business community that the suspension will only be temporary.

The bank had a capital stock of $50,000 and $25,000 surplus. It was opened August 25, 1884. L. A. Lambert was president; Henry Steubacher, vice-president; and H. C. Lambert, cashier.

THREE FAILURES. Three Denver Banks Conclude to Suspend for Self-Protection, Causing Considerable Excitement in Commercial Circles. DENVER, Col., July 18.—Commercial circles are greatly excited over the failure of three banks this morning.

The banks constituting the triple failure are: The Colorado savings bank, the Peoples' savings bank and the Rocky Mountain Dime and Dollar savings bank. An estimate of the total assets are $1,500,000 and liabilities are placed at nearly that amount. Charles Blakely was made assignee of the Rocky Mountain Dime and Dollar savings bank, and F. E. Woodbury is president and F. Clark, cashier. So detailed a statement has been given out, but from the books of the institution the assets are $1,500,000 and the liabilities $1,050,563.20. The officers of the bank are positive in their statement that depositors will receive dollar for dollar.

The Colorado savings bank, of which F. K. Atkins is president and C. O. Atkins cashier, in their statement to the assignee, Alfred Hottelers, place the open accounts of depositors at $435,108.50; certificates of deposit, $50,000.35; due other banks, $3,230.05. The assets over liabilities in what is declared to be good commercial paper, well secured, is $73,068.75.

No statement of the Peoples' bank can be secured as yet.

It is understood that all the assignments were preconcerted and were done for self-protection and for the protection of the depositors. The direct cause of the failures was the stringency of the money market and inability to realize on securities. The president of each bank declares that the president of the bank will be in full and the institutions will resume business in a short time.

An incident runs has been started on the Denver savings bank. The bank is taking advantage of the thirty and sixty days' notification provision and is paying out no checks or drafts for more than $20 each.

SIX KANSAS BANKS Close Their Doors. TOPEKA, Kan., July 18.—Six Kansas banks closed their doors yesterday. All are correspondents of the bank of Kansas City. The banks that failed are: The bank of Johnston City, the bank of Weir City, Hood & Kincaid's bank at Pleasanton, the Caney Valley bank at Caney; Ritter & Double-day's bank at Columbus, and the bank of Meade, at Meade Center. Several of these banks were loaded with real estate, which they were unable to turn into money.

THE YELLOW FEVER epidemic at Port Limon Practically Abated.

PANAMA, July 17.—Latest advices from Port Limon, the Caribbean Atlantic port of Costa Rica, where yellow fever has recently raged in virulent or epidemic form, are to the effect that Limon is improving. Only one death is reported to have taken place last week, and that of a government medical officer—Dr. Ashworth, late of the royal mail steamer Orinoco. The royal mail steamer Don, by which the advices arrived, had on board cargo and passengers in boats of Port Limon, but received nothing in return.

AFRICA IN SLAM.

PARIS, July 18.—A dispatch received here confirms the unofficial reports from Saigon as to the French successes on the upper Mekong river.

The press of this city is most bitter against Great Britain for her attitude in the Franco-Siam dispute. The newspapers generally insist that France deal quickly and sharply with the Siam.

The Siam says that Bangkok will be bombarded by the French gunboats only as a last extremity, should all other means of arriving at an understanding with Siam fail.

THE KANSAS CITY Safe Deposit and Savings bank, which several years ago so bravely stood a run and came out with dying colors and strengthened credit, has made an assignment.

Is Carter county a few days ago Joe Black resisted arrest and was killed by Constable Sherrill. Sherrill gave himself up and, on the grounds of doubtful homicide, was discharged. Black had a hard name.

WITHOUT WARNING.

A Chicago Street Car Run Down by a Train—Three Lives Lost and Many Injured—The Dead and Dying Buried Under the Debris of the Demolished Car—Sent to the Morgue and Hospital—Reins Made.

CHICAGO, July 18.—Forty-ninth street at the crossing of the Grand Trunk railroad was the scene yesterday of another accident whereby three lives were lost and many people injured. A Halsted-street horse car was run into and hurled thirty feet to one side. It was filled with men and women, forty-six passengers being on board.

The collision occurred at 7:30 o'clock. The south-bound Halsted-street car was crowded and men were standing on the foot-board. The conductor was Frank Barnett and the driver Charles Stalenecker.

At Forty-ninth street is a net work of tracks, and the crossing has always been regarded as a dangerous place. A long freight train was just passing, and the horse car was started to drive across the tracks. Conductor Barnett had gone ahead and failed to notice the freight train ahead.

As he saw, he could do nothing. He at once lowered the gates, but he was too late, for the street car was already on the tracks and the passenger train was only a few feet distant. It was running at a lively rate of speed, it said, and crashed into the side of the car. The latter was turned and then was thrown thirty feet through the air. Few of the passengers had any warning of the accident. Those on the foot-board nearest the engine were thrown into the air and landed on the ground.

But the majority of those on board were carried with the demolished car, and fell to the ground together, some with badly bruised bodies and others dead. The car, broken into many pieces, buried those who had been riding in it, and as the passenger train plunged ahead there were many cries of pain and agony to be heard.

Perkins and Dillon were frightfully mangled. A piece of timber had been forced down the latter's throat, breaking his jaw. There were also two women killed, but nothing on either would indicate their name. The dead were at once taken to the county morgue and the injured were placed in carriages and driven away.

The passenger train on the Great Northern was in charge of Conductor John Kenner, Engineer F. W. Jones and Fireman James Campbell. Engineer Campbell said that he did not see the horse car until he was in front of the train, and that he could not have stopped in time to avert the accident.

Police Captain Ward arrested Engineer Jones, Fireman Campbell and a man named Henry Huggins, who was riding in the cab of the engine. They will be held at the station until after the coroner's inquest.

GEN KELTON'S FUNERAL.

The Dead Officer Left Instructions that He be Buried with the Simplicity of a Private Soldier, Without the Attendance of a Minister of the Gospel. WASHINGTON, July 18.—The funeral of Gen. Kelton, ex-adjutant-general U. S. A. and governor of the Soldiers' home, will be marked by perfect simplicity in all its details. Kelton was especially that there should be no military ceremonies, and that the use of carriages should be avoided. He desired to be buried like an enlisted man, and specified that his family should not be present. Religious services were held at the governor's residence in the Soldiers' home grounds at 6 o'clock last evening instead of today, as originally intended. There will be no honorary pall-bearers.

One of Gen. Kelton's objections to having an expensive funeral was that he died a poor man, and did not want accounts of his family to be debased by himself in any way.

The impression in army circles is that Gen. D. S. Stanley, retired, will succeed Gen. Kelton as governor of the Soldiers' home. The selection was between two men who Gen. Kelton was appointed a year ago. Gen. Stanley is known to have the favor of the president, as he was appointed a brigadier-general by him during his last term.

BAD FOR BOGARD.

The St. Louis Real-Estate Man in a Badly Mixed Mess.

St. Louis, July 18.—Milo T. Bogard has been dismissed as secretary of the series of Western Union Building and Loan associations, and a committee of experts are examining the affairs of the associations. When things are cleared up, those who have bought notes secured by deeds of trust will know where they are. It is reasonably certain that Bogard is short in his accounts with the associations, and that he has added to his other shortcomings in an effort to keep up the end of the line of speculation he had become involved in, and at the same time satisfy the hungry maw of the money shark, who had got him in his clutches.

Bogard refuses to be interviewed, but a day or two will bring matters to a focus. Meanwhile he is under surveillance, and any attempt to flee the city would probably subject him to arrest.
